

NEW COMMUNITY MEDICAL CENTER TO OPEN IN CITY CENTER IN APRIL 2019.

For more than 30 years, the current Community Medical Center in Honson has been utilized by citizens for emergency medical care when general clinics are closed (i.e. holidays, the new year holiday season, weeknights and weekends) as the “Emergency Care Center for Holidays and Nights.” But, due to several problems, including an increasing number of users of this facility each year, an insufficient parking lot, and insufficient designs to cope with the barrier-free requirement, it was decided that the facility will be moved to 3-4-23 Chigasaki.

This new Community Medical Center is a composite facility of the offices of the Chigasaki Medical Association, the Chigasaki Dental Association and the Chigasaki-Samukawa Pharmaceutical Association, and will open in April, 2019.

Address: 3 -4-23 Chigasaki, Chigasaki, Kanagawa

Phone number: Not fixed yet. Please check the number in a March 15 issue of Public Information Chigasaki.

FORMER HIMURO FAMILY OWNER'S HOUSE REGISTERED AS A TANGIBLE CULTURAL PROPERTY

The former Himuro family owner's house in Higashikaigan-Minami, Chigasaki was registered as tangible cultural property by the Minister of Education, Sport, Culture, Science and Technology on Nov. 2 last year. This is the fourth one in Chigasaki. The house is acclaimed as a building that conveys trends of the early Showa era and aspects of suburban villa development. The two-story wooden building is located in the northern part of the site and was built in 1935.

The west part of the house has western-styled rooms with wooden floors and open structures, while the east part features a sophisticated Japanese design, with Japanese-style rooms with a tokonoma (alcove) and slacken slope eaves. It has a vent hole to take advantage of the gap between the western styled rooms and Japanese styled ones and get fresh air. The building was originally the dwelling of Shoji Himuro, the vice president of Mitsui Real Estate Company, and his wife, Hanako.

Her father, Chuya Yoshida, built the house in an area popular for suburban villas at that time. After the Himuros inherited it, Shoji added Japanese-style single-story rooms and a broad veranda in the east part in 1960 to enjoy the changes in seasons in the garden. The building and garden were donated by their successor to Chigasaki in 1991, but at present only its exterior and the garden are open to the public as a part of the Himuro Tsubaki Teien (Himuro Camellia Garden).

THE 64TH ŌOKA FESTIVAL

Tadasuke Ōoka was a famous judge in the Edo Period. His family and their successors ruled over the Tsutsumi area of Chigasaki.

After Ōoka died at 75 years old in 1751, he was given the honorary court rank of Junior Fourth Rank (従四位 in Japanese, these court ranks were decorations from over 1000 years ago awarded to samurai and aristocrats) in 1912 for his many achievements from the Japanese government and a conferment festival was held at his grave the next year. This is said to be the origin of Chigasaki's Ōoka Echizen festival.

Although temporarily interrupted by World War II and the Great Kanto Earthquake, the festival was restarted in 1956 and has continued since then.

A memorial service held at his grave and the Echizen parade are popular events of the festival enjoyed by both locals and visitors to Chigasaki.

The 64th Echizen Parade will be held on May 19. During the parade, the mayor will ride a horse, and performers dressed as samurai, warriors, and ninjas will follow in the procession.

IAC JAPANESE LANGUAGE CLASS NEW YEAR'S PARTY

During the New Year, not only families but also friends and coworkers get together for New Year's parties where people can have fun while eating, talking and drinking. Games and karaoke are also popular activities.

The International Association of Chigasaki's Japanese language classes (IAC) held a New Year's party in the Community Hall on Sunday, Jan. 6. About 50 foreigner students from 12 different countries and 13 volunteer teachers gathered at the Community Hall.

After enjoying various food and beverages, the attendees played Japanese games like karuta, where the player has to slap the card that's called, and fuku-warai, a game like pin the tail on the donkey, where blindfolded players attempt to put cutouts of eyes, a nose and mouth on a blank face. At the end of party the guests sang songs from their respective countries.

Lawyer Advice

-LAWYER-

Question:

I'm working as a temporary employee. I am persistently asked by my boss to go out to dinner together. Is this not sexual harassment?

Answer:

Sexual harassment means sexual behavior against a worker's will. In Japan, employers are obliged to take necessary and appropriate measures against sexual harassment, such as building a system to respond to complaints and taking appropriate measures for both victims and the perpetrator.

Victims can claim damages against perpetrators. In some cases, victims can pursue the company's responsibility. And this does not depend on the employment status; i.e., if you are a regular, temporary or part-time employee.

It seems that inviting someone out for dinner is not often recognized as sexual behavior. But depending on the circumstances, such as persistently inviting someone late at night, it may be subject to be considered as sexual harassment. Instead of suffering alone, I recommend you consult a lawyer.

MEET OUR NEW MAYOR HIKARU SATO

Hikaru Sato was elected as the new Chigasaki Mayor in the election on Nov. 18, 2018 after the former Mayor Nobuaki Hattori passed away suddenly on Oct. 4. We talked with him about his intentions for Chigasaki at the Mayor Reception Office on the fifth floor of City Hall.

CB: What is your personal history?

HS: I was born in Chigasaki in June, 1969. I graduated from Umeda Elementary School and Umeda Junior High School. I entered the architectural course of Kanagawa Prefectural Fujisawa Industrial High School, because my elder brother studied civil engineering there. Those days, baseball was so popular. I played it from elementary school and joined the school's baseball team and was a pitcher for the high school.

After graduating from high school, I went to Ferris State University in Michigan, USA, and studied facility management as well as architectural engineering. Since I preferred the local city, I decided to stay in the local town in Michigan state. Even though it was terribly cold there in winter, I enjoyed skiing and sometimes went to a big city, like Chicago, in the neighboring state, Illinois, by car.

CB: What is your history as a politician?

HS: After graduating from university in 1994, I came back to Japan. I became the secretary of House Representative member, Yohei Kono, but I was elected as a member of the Kanagawa Prefectural Assembly in 1999. I assumed my role as speaker in 2017. Therefore, totally I've served as a member for 19 years.

CB: What are your resolutions for Chigasaki City as mayor?

HS: I want to strengthen the assistance measurements of childcare; for example, to extend the charge-free period of childcare from the current sixth grade of elementary school to third grade of junior high school. Secondly, I want to conduct a school-feeding service at all junior high schools in Chigasaki. Finally, I eagerly want Chigasaki to be a major urban area like Yokosuka City, because many services will become familiar to citizens due to transition of powers from Kanagawa Prefecture to Chigasaki City, like when Kanagawa Prefecture's Health Care Center moved to Chigasaki's City Hall last year.

CB: It is expected that the number of foreigners from overseas will increase in Japan due to the revision of the Immigration Control Act. So, how will the Chigasaki city government manage this matter?

HS: The city published the Guidebooks for Foreign Residents in Chigasaki City in affable Japanese last June and also revised the easy-to-understand Japanese disaster prevention leaflets last December.

CB: What do you think about the sister-city relationship between Chigasaki City and Honolulu City?

HS: I think it is good to dispatch young people to Hawaii, because it is said recently that young people do not study abroad. I hope the dispatched young boys and girls will be a bridge between Japan and the USA in the near future.

CB: Finally, do you have any requests for the International Association of Chigasaki (IAC)?

HS: The Tokyo Olympic Games will be held in 2020 and it's expected that many foreign tourists will come to Chigasaki, because the yacht race will be held at Enoshima in Fujisawa. So, I hope the members of IAC would make something for them.

CB: Thank you for allowing us to interview you with your busy schedule. We hope your experience of staying a long time in the USA will reflect in municipal government.

SOSAKU HANGA EXHIBITION

Come and see the sosaku hanga world at Chigasaki City Museum of Art!

A sosaku hanga exhibition will be held at Chigasaki City Museum from Feb. 10 to Mar. 24 as the fourth part of the 20th anniversary of the museum's founding. About 180 works by 20 woodblock artists which were made in the late Meiji era, Taisho era and early Showa era are displayed. While Japanese ukiyo-e and shin hanga in the Meiji and Taisho eras were produced with the traditional division of labor between artists, carvers, printers and publishers, sosaku hanga are drawn, carved and printed all by the woodblock artists themselves. Between 1910 and 1920, young 20-something artists like Kanae Yamamoto, Kiyoshi Hasegawa and Koshiro Onchi made significant motions to reflect the originality of printmakers. Their works include Gyofu (Fisherman) by Yamamoto, Onna no Kyouzou (Women's Breast) by Hasegawa, and Wakare to Nozomi to 3 (Separation and Hope and 3) by Onchi. Under the strong influence of overseas artistic thoughts, with keen senses and critical spirits, they and their colleagues created sosaku hanga to share their eras. Please enjoy seeing the process in which Japanese sosaku hanga became an established art genre.

Opening hours: 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Closed days: Mondays (or the next day if Monday is a holiday) and March 22

ON THE 2033 GARBAGE DISPOSAL CRISIS

The final landfill disposal site in Tsutsumi district, Chigasaki, will become unusable by 2033; therefore, we must tackle waste reduction.

About 25 percent of household waste is NOT waste, including recyclable plastic containers and bottles, as well as recyclable paper and others. It is essential to separate garbage properly in order to reduce household waste.

In Chigasaki, a large amount of the ash left after burning waste is sent to be disposed of at the disposal site in Tsutsumi district, but this site is only available until 2033. By then, the old garbage incineration facilities will require maintenance. Surprisingly, the treatment and proper disposal of garbage requires more than 3 billion yen every year—and it will increase due to the fees to repair the old garbage incineration facilities and recycle the ash.

Chigasaki City encourages residents to implement the four R's in their daily lives to help reduce waste and increase recycling activities.

What are the “four R's”?

Refuse - Don't take it if you don't need.

Reduce- Reduce waste by cherishing things.

Reuse- Give it to someone before you throw away.

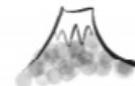

Recycle- Use resources by following the garbage separation rule.

To tackle waste reduction, Chigasaki is considering asking residents to utilize the four R's, creating a new recycle system, charging for garbage and collecting garbage from each house separately.

Chigasaki Breeze is jointly issued by the International Association of Chigasaki (IAC) and Chigasaki City

Ask Fuji-san

Dear Fuji-san,

Last year, I was invited to a hanami in Tokyo by my friend who lives in Tokyo. I learned Japanese people like to meet up with friends and eat and drink under the cherry blossoms. It was fun and I want to invite my friends to Chigasaki and do the same. However, I don't know the places where it is allowed to do hanami in Chigasaki. Do you have any recommendations?

Thanks, Sakura-lover

Dear Hans,

I would say hanami is one of best things to do in Japan and the cherry blossoms in Japan are splendid.

I would recommend the following places in Chigasaki:

1. Chigasaki Central Park. This park is 5 minutes away by foot from Chigasaki station. There is space to have picnics in the center of the park. There is also a public bathroom.

2. Satoyama Park. This park is located in the north area of Chigasaki. You can access the park by bus or car.

This park has a playground, BBQ facilities, and some areas have cherry blossom trees. There is a public bathroom and parking lot. To get there, board the bus bound for “Bunkyo Daisaku” from the north exit of Chigasaki station and get off at Serizawa Iriguchi.

The park is a five-minute walk from there. For more information, check <http://www.kanagawa-park.or.jp/satoyama/map.html>

Enjoy, Fuji
